Bucharest Hot Spots

National Theatre 1852

History: In May 1848, the construction of the first National Theatre in Bucharest started and it was inaugurated on 31st of December 1852.

During World War II, the theatre was bombed and most of it was destroyed in 1944. In September 2006 the first Novotel in Romania opened its gates.

The building has a modernist style but keeps the old National Theatre façade as homage to its history.

Winestone Restaurant:

Winestone Victoriei 37 pairs accessible, regional-inspired cuisine with a creative selection of Romanian and international wines, in a vibrant and sophisticated setting. Winestone brings together atmosphere, affordability and quality, to create a warm and passionate dining experience.

Atmosphere is key. The restaurant is designed to convey and suit different moods: a communal table, sofas, high chairs – creating a range of nooks and corners in which to savour at length the food, the wine, the company. Solid wood and natural stone contribute to the contemporary vibe and lively mood, while never being loud and 'in your face'. The atmosphere is buzzy and cosmopolitan, with hotel guests and local patrons crossing paths, thanks to the easy access from and to Calea Victoriei.

Selected fine Romanian Wines:

Wine is, of course, an inescapable factor. Taking prominence, the wine corner's diverse choice meanders from the usual paths, to the diners' surprise and delight. We bring in wines from talented, ambitious winemakers which are reinventing Romanian wine, as well as from highly praised international wineries which have stood the test of time and fashions. Outstanding wines, creative wines, wines you'll never encounter in regular places. Wines with a story.

And that story tastes so much better with a seasonally influenced menu, based on ingredients that speak of integrity and truth. Even before a meal lands, the bread basket will delight your palate: the result of a five-day fermentation process, the bread here is a thing of beauty – a satisfying, crunchy crust, and a deep flavour that's heightened by a surprisingly herby hint. As for the menu – whether it's a classic club sandwich, international charcuteries and cheeses, Romanian and regional selections of entrees and soups, or more complex French and regional inspired dishes, this is cuisine that is attractive, accessible and always authentic.

Be different!

Why not Romania?
